

Rich Earth Institute

Urine Diversion: Moving Ahead

Friday, August 14, 2015
Brattleboro, VT

Goal: To propel the potential of urine diversion as one solution to our water and waste water challenges through research, partnerships, collaborations and demonstration projects in the United States

Schedule

8:00 - 9:00 : Arrival, light breakfast and settling in

9:00 - 9:30 : Introductions

9:30 - 9:40 : Findings from Comparison of Municipal vs. Non-profit Based Promotion of Ecological Sanitation - Catherine Bryars, University of Massachusetts, Amhers

9:45 - 11:00 : Successes to date:

- Treavor Boyer, University of Florida
- Harold Leverenz, University of California, Davis
- Tamar Kohn, VUNA, South Africa
- Krista Wigginton, University of Michigan
- Ali Gagnon, Hampton Roads Sanitation District, Virginia Tech
- David Cedarholm, Durham, New Hampshire

11:00 - 11:30 : Brainstorm: Who else should be here? US urine diverters and global pioneers

11:30 - 12:30 : Rich Earth Urine Depot and Pasteurizer - Photo and Reformer interviews

12:30-1:45 : Lunch

1:45 - 4:00 : Moving Ahead - Identifying and addressing critical issues:

- The ICK Factor - Public Perception and communication
- Practical implementation and Infrastructure
- Agriculture Needs and Farmers
- Regulation and Public Policy

4:15 - 5:00 : Collaborations and international colleagues - pilot projects and funding

5:00 - 5:30 : Break - Stretch - Walk - Drinks

5:30 - 8:00 : Dinner and Conversation